2. Activities

Preparatory Meetings:

At the preparatory meetings, attended by the faculty leadership every Monday morning, the following topics came up: the budget, the discontinuation of teacher training at NKE and the issue of potentially of admitting teacher trainee students, the launch of the AI Master's program set to begin next year, as well as the new PPP tender and infrastructure changes also scheduled for 2027. In addition, one of the sessions was specifically dedicated to internationalisation: together with the faculty leaders, we discussed what short- and long-term measures could be taken to advance the faculty's internationalisation. Among other things, we discussed promoting Erasmus+ applications, tuition fees, "foundation" students, and what strategies we should consider when establishing new partnerships.

Honors and Academic Committees:

I participated as a delegate in the Honors and Academic Committees and exercised my right to vote on nominations under discussion. In the Honors Committee, we voted on the outstanding faculty members and colleagues who support education and who will be honored at the Faculty Celebration to be held on November 13. The agenda items for the Academic Committee were as follows: reviewing preliminary applications for university faculty positions, reviewing academic manuscripts submitted by faculty members returning from creative leave, and reviewing requests for approval of creative leave.

What's Next for Higher Education?

I attended the first session of the forum series titled "What's Next for Higher Education?", where we listened to a panel discussion on the state of higher education and the problems that frequently arise at the university. I will definitely try to attend the next session (on November 13) as well.

Other Matters:

At the initiative of the doctoral students at the Anglo-American Institute, we are organizing a forum for students in the institute's three doctoral programs, which will be held on November 20.

Thank you very much for taking the time to read my report! If you have any questions, I will do my best to answer them to the best of my ability.

2026.10.31.
